BOOOOOOOO . . . Witches and hobgoblins and Druids and grinning pumpkins and spitting black cats and bats and owls and ghosts are all scary things that prowl in the night on Halloween. But Laurie Harney, left, and Julie Ann Ball pat the giant scarecrow that will protect them from the horrid beasties on Halloween night. New Plan For Sunset Use Is Under Study

by Gunnar Norberg

Word of a new master plan for the city-owned Sunset Center, was conveyed to the Carmel Cultural Commission at the very end of Monday night's long meeting by Mayor Barny Laiolo, who said it was not necessary to get the Center on a "business basis" in order to get "overall use of the complete facility."

In this connection, he suggested this might involve some "light commercial" use, and that City Planning Director John Riling is working out a master plan.

Cultural Commission Chairman D. Paul Medalie proposed a special study session to consider master planning, and he will call a special meeting for that purpose at a suitable time.

Reference to a Sunset master plan recalls the ballot argument sent to voters last spring by the then City Council majority, urging them to vote for the Sunset rezoning ordinance which they later approved. The last sentence of that ballot argument read:

"We must . . . look ahead to an even richer future for our Sunset Center, not a commercial future, but an enrichment of our cultural heritage . . ."

This cultural heritage is essentially based on creative effort in the arts and in letters.

James Franklin Devendorf, co-founder of present-day Carmel, helped establish Carmel's early cultural niche, and wanted to be remembered (as he said in his "Who's Who in America" sketch) ". . . as a community organizer and patron of art, literature, and music . . . founder of artists' and writers' colony at Carmel-by-the-Sea . . . promoter of Carmel's Forest Theater . . . for production of original drama . . . ."

Today's Carmel Cultural Commission and the City Council have the opportunity to advance the Devendorf dream into tomorrow, and the master plan for Sunset Center now about to be presented could be a step in such a direction, if that becomes its aim.

Much of Monday night's meeting was concerned with discussion of new seats at Sunset auditorium, rather than the coming master plan to which Mayor Laiolo eventually alluded. The Commission saw models of three types of theater chairs, ranging in price from about $35 to about $55 each. The matter was referred to the Commission's newly appointed Building & Grounds Committee which was directed to report on the matter at the Commission's next regular meeting.

HEADS CRAFT GROUP—Robert Grabowski, president of Fine Arts and Crafts Festival and director of "39 Craftsmen Bring Christmas" the non-profit organization's 1968 fund-raising event.

Arts and Crafts Festival to Feature '39 Craftsmen'

A holiday happening aptly dubbed "39 Craftsmen Bring Christmas" will be the 1968 fund raising presentation of the Carmel Fine Arts and Crafts festival.

Announcement of the dates of this year's event was made by the president of the group, Robert Grabowski.

The works of 39 or more nationally known and local craftsmen will be on display at the La Playa Hotel on Dec. 6, 7 and 8. The display is open to the public at no charge.

The Fine Arts and Crafts Festival is a non-profit organization dedicated to the greater appreciation of art, and annually holds displays of the crafts and arts of its members.

Grabowski, as director of this special event, will be guiding the presentation of works of fellow artisans with the same instinct for beauty evidenced in the jewelry he creates in his unique shop on Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey.

"Much as worthy friends add to the happiness and value of life, we must in the main depend upon ourselves; and everyone is his own best friend or worst enemy."

SUNSET NOTES

By Dr. James E. Gilman

Explorerama Carmel will present "Yankee Sails the Nile" on Nov. 6, and "Austria in Four Seasons" on Nov. 23. Both programs will begin at 8:15 p.m.

"First Lady" by George S. Kaufman and Katherine Dayton will open for six performances on Friday, Nov. 8 at 8:30 p.m. Produced and directed by Sid Frohman and starring Betty Fowlston, Ruth McElroy, Ginny Frank and Bob Heater, "First Lady" is a delightful comedy of behind the scenes maneuvering in a presidential election.

Other performances are scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 9, and the folowing Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 15 and 16. Two matinees will be offered on Nov. 10 and 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Proceeds of "First Lady" will be donated to the Carmel Chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism.

The Carmel Chapter of the Council was organized in 1951. The Council maintains that alcoholism is a medical and not a moral problem; that alcoholism can be treated; and that alcoholics can recover. For further information call 624-2256.

The Carmel Music Society will present the English opera "Curlew River" by Benjamin Britten on Friday, Nov. 22 at 8:30 p.m. This Thomas Scherman production has been called the "most beautiful of contemporary English operas."

Now in its 42nd season, the Carmel Music Society has a well earned reputation for bringing to Carmel only the finest. A few tickets are still available at the Friar Tuck Bookstore, Mission near 6th, Carmel.

Master Plan

sals during November for a children's play was granted without charge.

However the continued free use of that room by the Monterey Museum of Art was questioned, and it was decided to ask the City Council to review and reconsider this free us.

The Commission decided to present a performance by the Brazilians, Los Indios Tabajaros, on Dec. 1, at Sunset auditorium, if that group still wishes to appear on that date.

A request by James McLain of Monterey to present a 'pop' concert at the city-owned Forest Theater, was tabled for lack of data concerning the level of sound proposed and for lack of identity of beneficiaries of the concert.

Commissioner Pruitt reported on the tentative cost of the establishment of an orchestra pit at Sunset Auditorium, saying that cost of three hoists on which the moveable floor of the pit could be lowered and raised, would be about $15,000, and that other costs would bring the total figure to something between $20,000 and $25,000. If the pit floor could be lifted upward to the level of the present stage, it would provide the forward extension of the stage which the Monterey County Symphony desires for its performances at Sunset.

Commission members expressed concern that tenants occupying rooms at Sunset should have those rooms open to the public on a daily basis, and asked City Administrator Hugh Bayless to contact City Attorney William Burleigh to draw new leases with such provisos.

(The Carmel Planning Commission meets today at 4 p.m. to consider action on the Flanders Property.)

CHS Students Will Collect for UNICEF

Two Carmel High School freshmen, Lorie Smith and Jackie Strasburger, have decided to try to get some students this year to abandon the traditional trick-or-treat activities on Halloween in favor of collecting funds for UNICEF.

UNICEF stands for the United Nations Children's Fund. . . . It also stands for health, sound nutrition, education, better family life and emergency aid.

On Halloween, Carmel High School students will not want treats and will not play tricks, but they will be collecting for this good cause.

You can recognize the UNICEF representatives by their orange and black containers that hold your contributions. Sponsoring teacher is Pat Mewhinney.

PINE NEEDLES

By MARGOT HYATT — Call 624-3881

In Tribute to Robinson Jeffers

The wind, which comes far across the sea,
Makes swaying of the moss that hangs from limbs
Of pine and cypress. Here upon the ground,
The soft unyielding earth, we listen to
The sounds that tell us what it was that told
The tragic poet what to say. We found
Philosopher and poet, humanist,
And love and death and life all around.

—Chauncey D. Leake

Pt. Lobos — Sunday, Oct. 27, 1968

The above poem by Dr. Leake who is well known here, was written at Point Lobos Sunday when a large gathering met to listen to the poetry of Robinson Jeffers read dramatically by Stanley Rice, assistant director of the poetry center, San Francisco State College.

Later, on the tour of the grounds of Tor House, Donnan Jeffers showed the group a bust of his father done by Jo Davidson.

Little Red Schoolhouse Wreaths

The approaching Holiday Season finds the "Little Red Schoolhouse" facing extinction, unless they are able to raise the necessary funds required for the earthquake-proof restoration. Although they have been blessed with many generous contributors, they still have a considerable sum to raise, which is why they are asking if you would kindly consider buying the beautiful Christmas wreath in the picture.

This handsome wreath is approximately 20 inches in diameter and is made of rare Pacific Alpine Fir together with fragrant decorative long-needled Pine. These firs grow high in the Cascade Mountains and have a long-lasting quality not usually found in evergreens.

The mothers trim these wreaths with Western Ponderosa pine cones, and a large red sateen water-repellant bow.

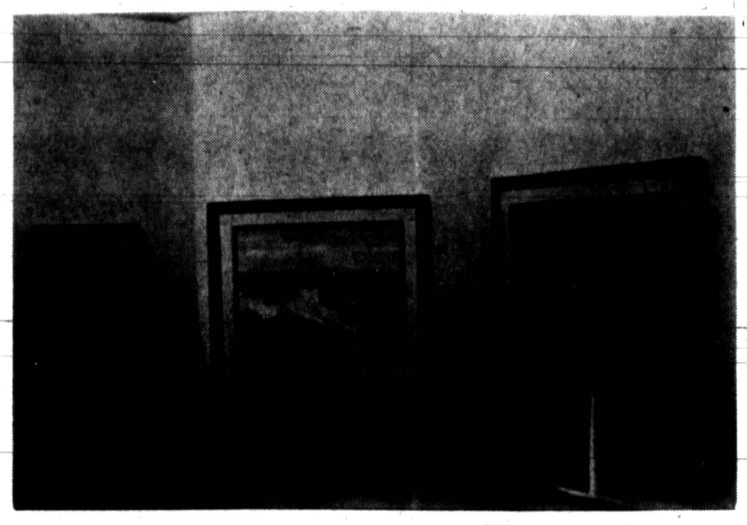
Seascape Corner—



A corner of Girard Aken's Seascape Gallery.

Girard Aken Features Ships and Sea

By Louise Cook

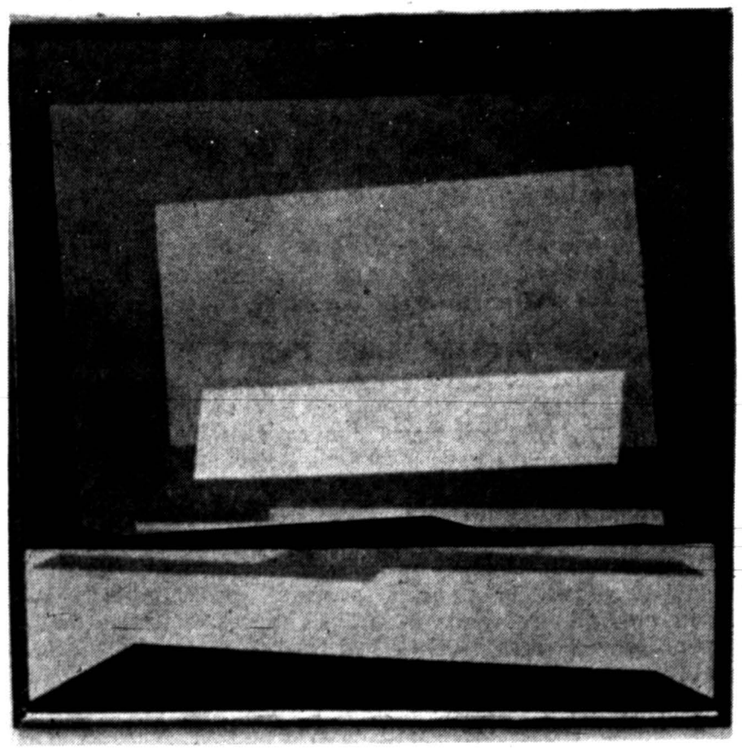
The climb to the second floor Seascape Gallery of Girard Aken, on Ocean Avenue is well worth the effort. Mr. Aken's paintings have substance and authority and show his affection for the sea with which we in Carmel all live so intimately. There is an unworked quality about them that gives a feeling of freshness and spontaneity.

Another of his loves, clipper ships, are done with a skillfull hand. One tiny painting of a ship under full sail, a real jewel, is painted in minute detail.

An outstanding work is of the sheer cliffs south of Carmel conceived at an unusual angle, overlooking the wave washed beach. A strong light on the rocky cliff is accomplished with style and confident brush strokes.

Mr. Aken has painted several nocturnal scenes of sea and ships and in these he has achieved a believable feeling of night which gives the pictures considerable interest.

A native of California, Gerard Aken studied at the California School of Fine Arts, San Francisco and the College of Arts and Crafts in Berkeley. His paintings have been on exhibit at the De Young Museum, Oakland Art Museum and many other Northern California galleries.



"Rain Clouds Over Cerillos, New Mexico" by Robert Nelson, second $300 prizewinner in the Monterey County Museum of Art competition. Nelson is head of the art department at Monterey Peninsula College. Exhibit lasts until Nov. 2.

Newton Bowman

Cesar Franck Sonata Charms Audience

A large contingent of Carmel music lovers were present at the violin recital of Takako Nishizaki at Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall Saturday evening.

Miss Nishizaki who plays with authority and discipline, as in the Vivaldi, as well as romantic lyricism, as in the Cesar Franck Sonata in A Major, offered a varied program which included Mozart, Elgar, Sarasate and the contemporary Norman Dello Joio. Her accompanist, Helen Taverniti, gave brilliant support in the Cesar Franck.

The young violinst is a product of the famous Suzuki method of teaching young pre-schoolers, three to five years of age, in groups. The youngsters start with ¾ size violins, as she did; they listen to recordings; their mothers are required to learn and play too, and the child imitates the mother. Since children memorize more easily at this age, the mothers learn by note.

The children are required to practice for half an hour, twice a day. Since the mother is practicing too, it is easier to get the youngsters to practice regularly.

Later on, she did not like to practice alone, but she is very glad her parents insisted that she practice. M.H.

Viennese Evening for New Conductor

A little bit of "Old Vienna" came to Carmel last week when the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the Symphony Guild presented a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Haymo Taeuber and members of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra at the Carmel Art Association galleries.

The gala affair was a climax to the opening night concert at Carmel's Sunset Auditorium. Hostesses for the evening provided a colorful addition to the party in their Austrian costumes with a lavish array of cheese and wine being served to guests.

The Viennese theme was selected as a tribute to the new conductor's heritage. For many years, Maestro Taeuber served as director of the Vienna Symphony Orchestra and the Vienna Boys Choir.

Mrs. Cecil Barker, Symphony Guild president, and James M. R. Glaser, president of the Monterey County Symphony Association, greeted guests. Mrs. Thomas Roper served as Hospitality Chairman for the festivities.

Mrs. Graeme MacKenzie designed the decorations which centered around a wine rack draped with pine branches and bunches of grapes.

Silver candelabra with dark green candles were at either end of a long table covered with handwoven tablecloths which Mrs. Graeme had brought from Vienna.

Wicker baskets and platters held many varieties of cheese, breads and crackers, by courtesy of Philip Coniglio of Mediterranean Market.

The wine was furnished by the Paul Masson Vienyards, famous for their "Music of the Vineyards."

Other hostesses included Mesdames Harry Lusignan, Roderick Dewar, Charles Trumbly, Walter Lehman, Hans von Richter, Ruth Buol, George Fletcher, Thomas Tousey, Blair Hackney and Ange Dennis.

Strauss waltzes played softly in the background for a gay and informal evening.

Roy Bogas, Pianist, Livens Program

The ringing tones of Roy Bogas at the piano brought life to an otherwise uninspired performance of the Mozart Piano Concerto No. 21 in C Major by the Oakland Chamber Orchestra at Sunset Theater Oct. 19.

Not until after the performance was over was the audience told that he had inserted his own cadenza, written the day before, which accounted for his use of the score and the impression of lack of preparation.

First concert of the year, presented by the Carmel Music Society, and conducted by Gerhard Samuel, the program was a singularly static one with little contrast in volume, tone or emotional content.

The program began with the Sinfonia No. 1 by Johann Christian Bach in which the small 22 orchestra sounded thin and lifeless.

The Hindemith "Herodiade" following the intermission, was a welcome change to contemporary harmony and instrumental blend with the addition of flute, clarinet and piano. This indeed was beautifully done, its tenuous beginning leading imaginatively to an exquisite ending. Robert Hughes contributed a solo on the bassoon and horns lent color.

The evening ended with Mozart's Symphony No. 29 in A Major in four movements. While the small orchestra did a more than adequate job with this work, it suffered by its spiritual similarity with the classical numbers in the first part of the program.

Concertmistress Judith Poska led the violins with grace and it was pleasant to recognize cellist Salley Kell who plays in the Bach Festival.

The Benjamin Britten opera, "Curlew River," will be the next offering of the Carmel Music Society on Nov. 22. M.H.

Musical Program Woman's Club

On November 4th at 2 p.m. at the Carmel Woman's Club a piano violin duo, composed of Mrs. Joey Olaeta, well known Monterey Peninsula pianist and Dr. Welton Lee, violinist, will prsent a sonata program including works of Schubert, Grieg, Debussy, and Beethoven.

Mrs. Olaeta and Dr. Lee will be introduced by Miss Marion Eley, program chairman. Miss Ianthe Densmore, club president will preside at the meeting, and hostsses will be Mrs. John T. Bissell, and Mrs. Carl E. Menneken. Mesdames John A. Coldwell, Davenport Denbow, Peter A. Kantor, and Robert L. Pelton will preside at the tea tables. Mrs. Myrtle Cleek will lad the pledge of allegiance.

Chamber Music Society's First

by JOHN CALDER

Some Peninsulans heard a great deal of music last week: the Oakland Chamber Orchestra, our own Symphony inspired by a conductor new to us, a young violinist at M.P.C.; and this last Sunday afternoon an intimate and enlightening concert by the Dolmetsch-Saxby Duo, the first in a series of four now planned by the Chamber Music Society to be held in the Carmel Museum of Art.

The sounds are different and perhaps better than those heard formerly in this building when it was a bank, but a portable platform or a circular arrangement of seating would improve the view, so that musicians might be seen as well as heard. Nonetheless, the series is sold out, and the only room left is outdoors on Dolores Street, not particularly conducive to listening to chamber music.

No exclamations are needed for the music ranging from Purcell to the present: it was artistic and scholarly, a combination difficult to find.

Much of the interest was created by the quaintness of the instruments and the relationship of the composers, all impeccably and humorously described in English by Carl Dolmetsch, who also played alto and soprano recorders and a treble viol—not all at the same time, of course. Joseph Saxby confined himself to a tiny harpsichord and finally piano; otherwise he was quite silent.

The compositions by Francois Couperin, Karl Friedrich Abel and the contemporary, Colin Hand, all involving the soprano recorder, proved to be of most interest since the instrument though only nine inches long was indeed sweet without being shrill, just as Mr. Dolmetsch said at the onset. Some of the music involved the sounds of nature, particularly bird calls, which can be found in other music of the period and carried to our own.

Colin Hand's Toccatino showed Joseph Saxby's capabilities with the harpsichord, the music suggesting Bach in present idiom, but none of this music even remotely tried to reach the sonorities or delve into the profundities of a Bach, let alone a Handel. One could be eating, chatting or dancing without missing much, but still acknowledging the music, as one suspects was the case. The selection from Purcell, Suite in G Minor for solo harpsichord, intimated some of the seriousness of this man who reached for a greatness which was never quite his, but which was beyond his contemporaries and countrymen including Henry Eccles whose Sonata in F Major for alto recorder and harpsichord was heard.

Of particular interest to Mr. Dolmetsch was the composer J. B. Senaille (1687-1730), some of whose manuscripts Mr. Dolmetsch inherited from his father. Two other contemporaries, Nigel Butterley and Herbert Murrill, who found satisfaction in composing for these instruments and acquaintances of the Duo, filled out the program. As was said at the beginning, it was an intimate and enlightening program.

Chamber Music At Carmel Museum

The opening concert of the 1968-69 season of the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula was held on Sunday at the Carmel Museum of Art.

The Society presented Carl Dolmetsch and Joseph Saxby, two distinguished musicians from England who have delighted audiences both here and abroad with recorder, harpsichord and trebel viol.

Other special attractions of the season will feature The Crown Trio, well known to Peninsula musicians for their beautiful artistry in performances of the finest in Trio literature; the Morrison String Quartet, four artist-students who have won the demanding Morrison Auditions in competition are selected for this quartet; and the Pacific Trio, three artists originally from the west coast now living and concertizing on the east coast and in Europe.

Miss Angie Machado, president of the Society states that "the purpose of this non-profit organization is to fulfill a need not being met in this area; to provide concerts in the chamber music repertoire in small, intimate combinations, using both local and visiting artists."

To stimulate young students in this musical area, two prizes of $100 are planned. A pianist and a violinist, under the age of 25, will be selected by audition and will appear on one of the Society's programs.

Attendance at concerts is by membership in the Chamber Music Society. The capacity of 200 subscribers was recently reached.

Astrologgy and Numerology Take A Long Look At Hallowe'en

by JEWEL WHITE

Have you ever stopped to wonder where the goblins, witches, black cats and all of the other elements came about that characterize the eve of All Saints, Day?

Realizing that this gala occasion has rarely been explained by the science of Astrology or Numerology, we hied outselves to the Carmel Library and did a bit of research on the subject.

Records seem to vary on the first actual observance of "Hallowe'en", but the celebration of All Saints Day dates back to Nov. 1, 608 A.D. when Boniface IV was gifted by the Emperor Phocas with a pagan temple, which was known as the Pantheon. He quickly renamed it the Church of All Saints and declared May 1, 834 as All Saints Day . . . The Druids changed the date to Nov. 1, 835 and declared Oct. 31st to be known as "HALLOWE'EN."

Since it was their belief that the dead would return at midnight and claim all stray souls, they met in the early evening and stayed together until daylight as a means of self-preservation.

Since this covered several hours, they voted to make it a party and started bringing food and drink. They danced, bobbed for apples, and played games.

Some of the young bucks over-did the apple cider intake and playfully went out on the town and played some practical pranks, which were credited to the returned dead. This seemed to please the playful ones and each year they became more bold in their pranks, but wore masks and disguizing costumes to defy detection.

And there you have it . . . the answer . . . to . . . Why Hallowe'en? . . . also to "Trick or Treat". . .

Taking the first actually known date, Nov. 1, 608, Astrology tells us that it was born under SCORPIO, (with Oct. 31 in the same sign.) This gives it a deep, water-sign influence, and explains the secretive wearing of masks, etc.

Taking the May 1, 834 date of Boniface IV, we find that it comes up Taurus and is a number "5."

That indicates an earth sign and a very gay, friendly socially active life. Chances are that if the Druids had n t changed the date to Nov. 1, 835, we might never have had the pranks and 'Tricks-or Treaters'.

The dinners, yes, that uses earth-grown foods — in keeping with the sign of Taurus — but no disguised pranksters. But should we really be sorry? We think Hallowe'en plays it's happy role in our lives every year and fires our imagination to things and eras gone by.

By 1922 a regular Mardi Gras was held at Pinckneyville with a night parade, queen contest, dance and maskers contest. Pretty, much the same thing happens to-day. Haven't we all "experienced the thrill of la Masque Ball," and the fun of being transported back thru the centuries to those first days. Taking these days, or Oct. 31, 608, numerology tells us that it has a soul number of "1".

This is a busy number and means constant activity and movement. The date of Oct. 31, 1922 gives a soul number of "1" also. The date the Druids chose was Oct. 31, 835. This gives it a soul number 9 and that is the most spiritually active number. With a number 9, one often berates himself thinking he could have done bette , etc.

The Druids' inner fears of the returning dead practically demanded of them that they perform some razzle-dazzle to keep the dead from stealing their souls. Hallowe'en this year will be ruled by the sign Scorpio and it's soul number will be "3."

That is the number of self-expression and we are, indeed, xpressing ourselves artistically. One look in our Carmel stores will offer you such a display of Hallowe'en splendor that it is difficult to choose. Let's choose something, tho. It is so much fun to decorate the home for this colorful occasion.

All children should grow up with memories of these very special days. It cements fond "Togetherness" and is also good for "grown-up" children of all ages, as well.

THOSE WHO KNOW ALAN CRANSTON...

PIERRE SALINGER
Former Press Secretary to President Kennedy . . .

On May 26, 1964, Pierre Salinger told the Associated Press that "the fact remains that by Mr. Alan Cranston's own admission, his inheritance tax appraisers [while Cranston was serving as California State Controller] are substantially kicking back to finance his bid for the Senate. The matter amounts to a major scandal."

HUGH M. BURNS
President Pro Tem, California State Senate . . .

On October 22, 1968, veteran Democrat state legislator of 31 years, Hugh M. Burns, told reporters that Alan Cranston's statements supporting the grape boycott "raised serious doubts as to Mr. Cranston's competency to serve as United States Senator." Said Burns: "This is undoubtedly the first time in American political history that a candidate for the U. S. Senate has ever publicly asked consumers not to buy the products of his state. This alone probably should be enough for Californians to soundly reject him at the polls November 5."

HOUSTON FLOURNOY
California State Controller . . .

On September 5, 1968, Controller Houston Flournoy issued a report to Californians. Highlighted was the fact that 25 appraisers, most of them appointees of Democrat Controller Alan Cranston and since replaced by Flournoy, failed to account for their expenses. According to a San Jose Mercury-News Sacramento Bureau article which reviewed the report, a tabulation of some 154 appraisers who did file income reports during Cranston's term as controller, showed that each averaged $20,654 during 1967. After Flournoy took office he initiated a program of qualification tests for inheritance tax appraisers. Cranston had never used such tests. The results were that of those appraisers who had served under Cranston who took the test, 48 failed and 11 refused to take the test and resigned. Only 51 passed.

JESSE M. UNRUH
California State Assembly Speaker . . .

On May 14, 1964, the Associated Press and the United Press International reported that Democrat State Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh stepped into the legislative controversy over the appraisers who were appointed by State Controller Alan Cranston. Unruh said: "Inheritance tax appraisers are one of the most corrupting influences in California politics today." The following week Unruh called on Cranston to answer the charge of a former state inheritance tax appraiser that the controller sold the jobs for $5,000 campaign contributions. The Associated Press reported that Unruh offered to open his own campaign financial records and challenged Cranston to debate the sources of his political funds.

NEGRO PUBLIC OFFICIALS
May, 1964 . . .

In a joint press release reported by the United Press International in May of 1964, four Negro public officials charged that Alan Cranston pretended to favor the civil rights program while taking the opposite position in the operation of his office as California State Controller. Making the accusation, according to United Press International, were the Hon. Gilbert Lindsay and Billy G. Mills, Los Angeles City Councilmen, and the Hon. F. Douglas Ferrell and Mervyn M. Dymally, Los Angeles Assemblymen. They said: "Cranston does not visibly have one member of any minority group on his Sacramento capitol staff while other state office holders do."

OAKLAND TRIBUNE EDITORIAL
October 17, 1968 . . .

Alan Cranston's record as a public official does not inspire confidence. As State Controller during the eight years of the Brown administration, he was a party to the excessive spending and fiscal irresponsibility that brought California to the brink of bankruptcy.

TURKISH SUNRISE—Dr. Johnson shot this lovely sunrise over the Bay of Antalya on Turkey's south coast near the city of Antalya, one of the ancient settlements of Asia Minor. In the background is Mt. Daglari.

NO TARBOOSH—In 1924, Kemel Ataturk, first president of Turkey, proclaimed dress reforms for the Turkish people. He abolished the veil for women and did away with the "tarboosh" or fez, of the men. Rural men took to the billed cap, which is now traditional. These men sit by an ancient ruin near Antalya.

(The Reuben Johnsons have just returned from a six-month sabbatical, during which they wrote letters back to the Pine Cone. Dr. Johnson is presenting a series of illustrated talks on the trip at MPC. Watch the Pine Cone for the date of the next presentation.)

Tourist accommodations are just being started along this coast south of Turkey, and at present can be found at a few cities. The bay and coastline at Antalya is as beautiful as we have ever seen.

At Ephesus are evidences of a beautiful city where streets are paved with marble. Here is found the ruins of the Temple of Artemis which was one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

Izmar is the modern Turkish city located where Smyra was once a great harbor. At the entrance of the Dardanelles are the ruins of the nine cities, one built upon another, of ancient Troy. This entrance is also the battleground of the ill-fated Battle of Gallipoli, where the Turks turned back the Anzac attempt to make a landing in March, 1915.

We found that Turkey is only partially civilized today. Through the aid programs more scientific agriculture is being introduced in some places.

The long standing hatred between Turks and Greeks is very much in evidence on both sides. It appears that the difficult Cypriot question might be resolved in the near future.

We visited Nicosia and found the United Nations troops are patrolling along the green line. But the barricades on the Greek side had just been taken down, and a leading Turkish leader had just returned to Nicosia after four years of exile. He spoke before a group on the day we were in Cyprus in a most conciliatory manner.

WE TRY HARDER

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

When Ernesto Guevara was a young boy he was nicknamed Che, the Pig, because he made noises when he was eating. The name stuck to him and he did not object to it, and thus it was when he became one of the world's well known revolutionaries, he was still known as Che Guevara.

His friend, Ricardo Rojo, has written a biography of him, which is more than a biography because it is also history, and it explains what it was that made a revolutionary of Che. There are photographs for illustrations.

The book was written in Spanish and translated into English, not always with success. Despite certain awkward sentences, the book seems very real.

The book jacket blurb states that in ETERNAL FRANCE author Nora Lofts "breathes life into a procession of historical figures." This is probably true because the book is done in a novelistic style yet with all of the Lofts exacting choice of words. It covers French history from 1789 to 1944, a period of one hundred and fifty five years, here divided into seven epochs.

It may be that critics will decide this book cannot be substituted for more scholarly histories, but certainly it can be read with more pleasure.

Subtitle on the book KINETIC ART is THE LANGUAGE OF MOVEMENT, and language it is rather than art. This is the language which is expressed in formations made of bits of this and that, made with ideas in mind, and subject to interpretation both by the artist and the beholder.

Some people are mad about it.

Others regard it as the result of pretense on the part of untalented experimenters. The book is interesting. The author is Guy Brett.

A book which may frighten and astonish you is BONDAGE by Stephen Barlay. It is the account of white slave traffic all over the world. Today's women seem to be fearless and free but according to this book a monstrous traffic enslaving women and girls is operating in this country as well as in those countries which we think of as more backward.

Books like this are difficult to believe and this one is not too well written. This mitigates against it. But it was published by Funk and Wagnalls and if they can wedge in a book on this subject among their dictionaries and other reference books, there must be some truth in it.

FLASHING WINGS, THE DRAMA OF BIRD FLIGHT is the title of a book by John Terres. He tells how birds fly, how high and how fast they fly, how they fly under water, and many more facts which should be of great interest to both amateur and professional bird watchers.

It is no surprise to learn that the hummingbird employs more wing beats per second than any other bird but the actual number of beats may be a little surprising.

Eighty beats per second! There are no lazy hummingbirds.

It has been said that the difference between a totalitarian state and a democracy is not in the laws they have but the way in which the laws are enforced. With that in mind, let us say that the next book is disturbing in the extreme. Written by William Turner who is a former FBI agent, it is entitled THE POLICE ESTABLISHMENT. It details the complete breakdown of relations between police departments in big cities and the citizenry they are hired to protect. If you cannot stand to read the entire book read only the chapters on Los Angeles, San Francisco, Berkeley and Oakland. It's enough to make any reader heartsick.

Community Chest Aids Girl Scouts

There are 10 troops of Girl Scouts or more than 300 girls active in the Carmel and Carmel Valley area. The girls are quietly, steadily developing solid senses of value under the leadership of Carmel volunteers who care about youth.

Girl Scouting is open to girls of all races and creeds.

The Girl Scout program is based upon the development of democratic relationships as girls learn from their earliest Brownie experiences to plan and to be aware of others — those skills we want them to be able to practice as young adults.

The Girl Scout, as she progresses from Brownie to Junior to Cadette to Senior, learns to be honest and thrifty (not easy when we can give our children so much). She learns to be kind and helpful. Last year she made Christmas decorations and tray favors for a hospital, stuffed envelopes for the Red Cross, wrote letters and helped to support a Columbian child in need, made Ditty Bags for Vietnam and Christmas card booklets for children in hospitals, made two hundred dozen cookies for Fort Ord soldiers, and participated in many flag ceremonies.

Service to others is a major foundation of the Girl Scout program.

Girl Scouting is supported by the Community Chest. The person asking you for your contribution may be a Girl Scout Leader. Many of them do participate in the Community Chest Campaign in addition to their Girl Scout volunteer work. Give generously to the Community Chest Volunteer who comes to your door.

Christian Science Sunday Sermon

A well-loved verse from Psalm 130 — "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption" — is part of a Bible lesson-sermon titled "Everlasting Punishment" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Selections to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: "Divine Love corrects and governs man. Men may pardon, but this divine Principle alone reforms the sinner. God is not separate from the wisdom He bestows. The talents He gives we must improve. Calling on Him to forgive our work badly done or left undone, implies the vain supposition that we have nothing to do but to ask pardon, and that afterwards we shall be free to repeat the offence."

THE TWO OF US

Movie Review

Heart Is a Lonely Hunter —Alan Arkin's silent eloquence as a deaf mute establishes him as one of the screen's top performers. Sandra Lock is great as a girl who loves him.

Rachel, Rachel — Joanne Woodward is directed by her husband, Paul Newman, making his debut in this art form. Outstanding acting, and brilliantly directed.

West Side Story—One of the greatest musicals ever filmed. Music by Leonard Bernstein. Robert Wise and Jerome Robbins co-directed. Won 10 Academy Awards.

The Two of Us—Michel Simon as a man who hates . . . and hates . . . and hates. Everything and everybody. A moving and tender story of transition.

The Thomas Crown Affair —Steve McQueen, bored banker, and Faye Dunaway, ace investigator, in a story of cops and robbers. Amusing and imaginative.

The Sweet Ride — Pete Rugolo's music makes this an outstanding film. Plot deals with dropouts of all kinds. Rugolo's music, however, is worth the admission price.

The Boston Strangler — Tony Curtis and Henry Fonda star in this chilly film based on the activities of the self - confessed Boston Strangler.

I Love You, Alice B. Toklas — Why is it Peter Sellers just can't turn in a bad performance? This adult comedy pokes fun at Hippiedom and the Establishment without favoring either.

The Scalphunters — Burt Lancaster as a trapper and Ossie Davis a runaway slave on the trail of pelts stolen by Indians and then scalphunters.

Gone With the Wind — Returning to Monterey is this classic American motion picture. It seems unnecessary to state that it is set in the South during and after the Civil War, and that the stars are Clark Gable Vivien Leigh, Leslie Howard and Olivia deHavilland.

Who's Minding The Mint? —A mob of money-makers, as inept as anything you've ever seen, plot to rob the mint in Washington, Dorothy Provine, Jim Hutton and Milton Berle.

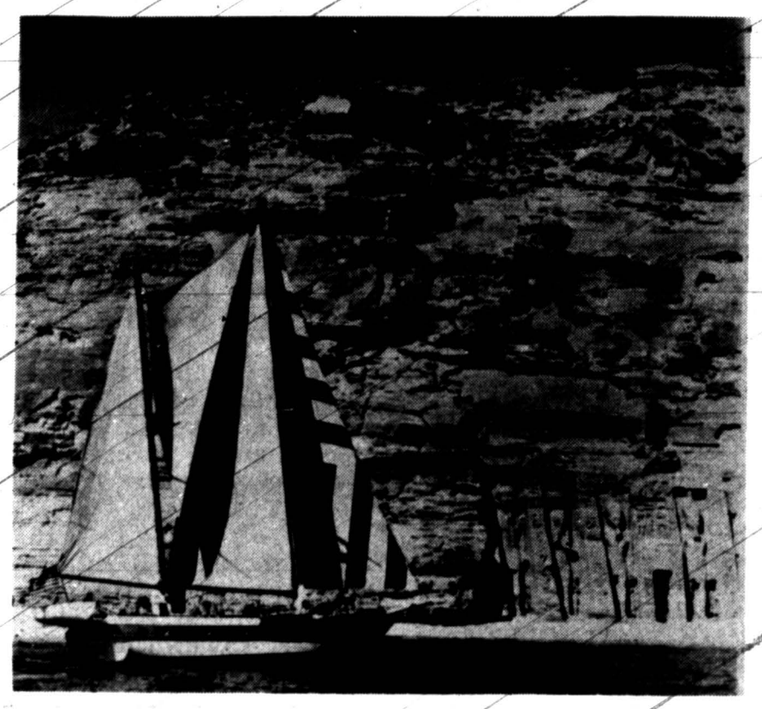
POLITICAL PLEA — Ginny Frank, left, and Ruth McElroy in a scene from George S. Kaufman's "First Lady" which opens Nov. 8 at Sunset Center Theatre. Produced and directed by Sid Frohman, all proceeds will be donated to the Carmel Chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism.



DISMANTLED — The ketch "Yankee" sails past Abu Simbul just before this ancient statuary was dismantled to preserve it from the rising waters in back of the Answan Dam.

'Yankee Sails the Nile' is Next Explorerama for Sunset

Famous National Geographic photographer Captain Irving Johnson will appear in person at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 6 in Carmel's Sunset Auditorium to narrate his feature-length color travel and adventure film, "Yankee Sails the Nile".

Capt. Johnson has made an outstanding career of voyaging under sail and fulfilled his boyhood dreams in so doing. He has sailed to the far corners of the world; has visited with primitive people in the South Sea Islands and has explored uncharted waters. He and his wife have written seven books and have become internationally known for their articles in National Geographic Magazine and for their appearances on the nationally televised programs of the Geographic Society.

In the film he will show in Carmel they sail aboard the specially built ketch Yankee through an ara with a culture some 6000 years old. The Yankee sails from the Sudan to the Mediterranean and in a four month period takes some of the most fascinating footage of both modern and ancient Egypt. The film contains the last photographs taken of Abu Sibel before it was dismantled to make way for Egypt's new Aswan Dam. Other highlights include El Alamein Battleground, Nubia, Gizeh and the Great Pyramid, Cairo and Alexandria.

Reserved seats are now available at the Central Box Office, Mission at 6th in Carmel and Abinante Music Store in Monterey.

Gaiety Warm at Studio

by Allman Cook

A refreshing escape from hatred, tension, slut and attempts at intellectualism in entertainment is being offered in the Studio Theatre and Restaurant presentation of "The Star Spangled Girl" by Neil Simon. The original Broadway production opened on December 21, 1966.

The dialogue is innocent, youthful and inconsequential but stimulates considerable laughter in basing love's attraction on smell rather than on any plausibly visible basis.

The play ends in an emotional climax which gives you a warm feeling of optimism for youth as they begin to be acquainted with Truth.

Only three players are in the cast, Andy Hobart as Beau Stark an editor and publisher, Norman Cornell as Rick Poe, writer and Sophie Rauschmeyer as Toni MacDonald, a sweet young Doris Day type of thing.

Demanding as these roles are, with the three characters almost constantly on stage for two hours, they didn't appear to drop a line or cue. They enlivened the show quite vividly as they warmed up to their parts. Norman Cornell was exceptionally good.

A new Studio Theatre, Sunday evening policy of a one hour earlier show allowed me to go home at 9:30 for a full night's sleep before work Monday. Sunday night only, the Studio serves dinner starting at 6 p.m. and the show starts at 7:30.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Egypt, Land of Epicures"

After an informal dinner of Egyptian fancy fare, let's go to Carmel's Sunset Auditorium on Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 8:15 p.m.

There, we'll imagine we're aboard the "Yankee" sailing the Nile.

This will be a memorable experience without even leaving Carmel. But to get into an exotic kind of mood, let's invite six other Explorerama enthusiasts to dine before viewing this colorful travel-adventure film narrated in person by Captain Irving Johnson, famous TV and National Geographic photographer.

Gateway to East

Egypt, at the gateway to the East, has everything to offer in culinary delights. Egyptian cuisine is noted for its supply of native foods.

The country people use the fruits growing in their gardents: the guava, melon, date palm, while the more affluent person finds grapes, figs, pomegranates, apricots, oranges and other luscious fruit in abundance, at the city open market place.

Fresh vegetables are somewhat restricted compared to California's variety, but eggplant, okra, tomatoes, cucumbers, plus garlic and onions, are in every day use. Dried white beans and rice are the main staples, while lamb is the meat.

Let's start with a salad called

Fool Mudammas

Three cups smallest dried white beans; 1 t. salt; 2 cloves garlic, minced; ¾ cup olive oil, lemon juice to taste; 3 green onions with tops sliced fine; romaine lettuce. Serves 8.

Wash beans well and soak in water (minus salt) overnight. Drain and cover with fresh water. Cook until skins split (about 2 hours). Do not overcook, as they should still be firm; drain and cool.

Place in bowl and add salt, garlic, olive oil, lemon juice and mix lightly.

Taste for seasoning, chill until ready to serve with sliced green onions on top.

Put on separate beds of crisp hearts of romaine for individual service at the table, California style, if not totally Egyptian.

Eggplant and Lamp Casserole

Half a cup sesame oil; 1 large firm eggplant, peeled and sliced ½ inch thick; 2 onions, chopped fine; 3 lbs. lean leftover roast of lamb, ground; salt and pepper to taste; 1½ or more t., each, cinnamon and allspice, 2 cups cooked white rice; butter or extra oil. Serves 8.

Heat half the oil in heavy skillet. Brown peeled eggplant slices in this on both sides. Add rest of oil, or more if necessary; remove eggplant and put aside. Add remaining (or more) oil to skillet but do not drown or it will become soggy.

Add onions, lamb, seasonings. Saute lightly while stirring. Drain off extra oil. Arrange layer of cooked rice on bottom of buttered casserole, cover with one third lamb mixture.

Add layer of eggplant and successive layers of rice, lamb and eggplant until ingredients are finished, with rice on top. Bake in 375 F. oven about 35 minutes or until crusty brown on top but not dried out. Serve from casserole.

The above succulent casserole is accompanied by

Okra in Olive Oil

Three lbs. fresh young okra, or use frozen or canned okra; 2 onions and garlic cloves, each, finely chopped; 2 cups tomato juice; 1 cup water; salt and pepper to taste.

Wash okra and remove Stems, but do not break pods. If using frozen or canned okra this step is unnecessary. Saute separately the onions and garlic, season, then add tomato juice and water (or straight from the can V-8 juice, U.S.A. style.) Add fresh lemon juice to taste for that certain twist.

Cook moderately until okra is just tender and liquid thickens slightly. Serves 8.

Now if you think it more appropriate to serve fish, since we're going to cruise along the Nile in imagination, why not use what Monterey Wharf offers us. This could augment the lamb casserole or be served as an hors d'oeuvre.

Kebabs-Along-the-Nile

Three lbs. firm-fleshed fish such as rock cod, halibut, haddock or sea bass; 16 small onions, peeled, whole; 2 garlic cloves, minced; juice of 2 lemons; 2 whole cloves; 4 bay leaves; 1 t. rosemary; olive oil and red wine mixed. as required. Serves 8.

Trim fish, cut into 2-inch squares or chunks. Place fish and onions in marinade of remaining items for several hours in refrigerator, turning often before cooking. String fish on skewers, alternating with onions. Have charcoal fire well burned down into a bed of red coals, Broil kebabs only until just tender; turn twice while broiling; brush each time with marinade.

To serve, lay skewers on a hot platter, bring to table with fired bundles of dried bay leaves around the edge of platter while bay leaves are still lighted.

The smoky fragrance of these pungent leaves adds superbly to the fish flavor. You can broil these under your oven broiler if you prefer.

Bread in Egypt is the flat round type and you'll find this kind at the Mediterranean Market in Carmel or at the Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey.

There are also all sorts of sesame saltines and various imported crackers which will serve as bread.

The fruits which we've described, including the lovely persimmons now on the market with us, will make an easy and beautiful-to-look-at centerpiece-dessert. If you want to augment the sweet tooth of your guests, then prepare this delicious

Date and Almond Bread

Two cups flour; 1 egg; 1 cup milk; ½ cup brown sugar; ¼ t. ground mace; 2 t. baking powder; ½ t. salt; 1 cup shelled, chopped almonds; ½ cup chopped dates.

Beat egg, then add sugar and beat again. Sift baking powder, flour, mace, salt, together. Stir in nuts and dates alternately with flour mixture to egg and sugar. Turn into buttered loaf tin.

Stand in warm place 20 minutes to rise. Bake in 350 F. oven about an hour until light brown. Cool on cake rack.

Pass unsweetened butter and fig preserves to coat each slice according to individual preference.

Tea, cold soft drinks and sweet thick coffee are the accepted beverages.

Wayfarer Booklet Describes Garden

A lovely booklet describing the Bibical Garden of the Church of the Wayfarer has been completed and is available in the Church office.

Prepared by Mrs. Esther Simpson and Mrs. Marie Farley, the cover is a lovely photograph of the Church building by Steve Crouch.

Douglas Grundy did the brilliant line drawings of the plants and flowers that grow in the Garden, and the Reverend Peter Farmer wrote a poem for the booklet.

The Garden, located on the corner under towering pine trees, presents a face of beauty to the visitor the year around, and the brochure does an outstanding and sensitive job of describing that beauty.

A small contribution will cover the printing costs, and anyone wishing copies may get them at the Church office.

MPC Workshop in Self-Awareness

"Man at the Edge of Becoming Human," a series of five evening forum sessions and the same number of correlated Saturday workshops, will open Friday, Nov. 1, at Monterey Peninsula College.

Purpose of the series, according to MPC's community services office, is to provide for participants "several different psychological approaches to man's quest for self-awareness." These approaches will include an introduction to transactional analysis, the use of hypnosis in self-evaluation, the "Inquiry development" process of "bridging the communication gap" and psychodrama.

Workshop leaders will include such social scientists as Dr. David Kupfer, of the International Transactional Analysis Assn.; Dr. Peter H. C. Mutke, a physician who teaches the application of hypnosis in medicine; Dr. Ronald Menmuir, MPC philosophy instructor; and Hussain Chung, consultant in the area of human interaction problems for Stanford University and the Stanford Research Institute.

For further information, call Shirlie Stoddard Public Information officer at MPC, 375-9821, ext. 259.

Opera Series

The Monterey Peninsula of Art will present a series of three great operas beginning Nov. 19.

"The Tsar's Bride" by Rimsky Korsakov will open the triad at the Village Theatre, Dolores at 7th, with two evening performances, at 7:30 and again at 9:30.

On Nov. 20, Moussorgsky's "Boris Godunov will be presented, and Tchiakowsky's "Eugene Onegin" on Nov. 21.

This festival of Music is a benefit for the financial support of the museum of art, and while tickets are now on sale for all performances at the Village Theatre box office, only those tickets on sale at the museum benefit the museum.

Bank of America Record Offer

A special album of Christmas music performed by leading recording artists may be obtained at Carmel Bank of America Branch beginning Nov. 5 at several dollars less than the selling price.

In making the announcement, Mgr. August Johnson of the Carmel branch noted, "The record can be played on monaural equipment as well as on a stereo player."

Entitled "Christmas in California," the album features such names as Vic Damone, Al Hirt, Ed Ames, Henry Mancini, the Robert Shaw Chorale, Harry Belafonte and Leontyne Price.

The songs range from such traditional carols as "O Little Town of Bethlehem" to "Here Comes Santa Claus."

JOHN L. SHAW

WHITE TO SPEAK — John L. Shaw, of Temple City, Calif., and vice-president of High-Twelve International, will bring Elliot P. White of Louisville, to the Carmel High Twelve meeting on Nov. 4 at the Monterey Elks Club. White is the president of High Twelve International and is in California to attend the annual convention of the California Association of High Twelve Clubs. While on the west coast, White wanted to visit some of the larger California clubs. Carmel's 188 members makes it the second largest in California and third largest in the entire High Twelve International.

Valerie Cunningham

She's part of the new sound at Pacific Telephone's Monterey office.

You may remember her as "Information," but she has a new name now—"Directory Assistance."

Carmel residents know her as Valerie Cunningham. She's one of 40 women in PT&T's Monterey office who provide "Directory Assistance."

The reason for the change is simply that "Directory Assistance" is a better description of her job . . . helping you find a number that isn't in your phone book.

The Monterey office provides "Directory Assistance" for Pacific Grove, Big Sur, Monterey, Carmel Valley, as well as Carmel.

Taxes Going Up... Up...

by Gunnar Norberg

(This is the third in a series of articles on taxes on the local scene by Pine Cone writer Gunnar Norberg.)

If we were to assume here, as the city officials does, that the population of the city of Carmel is 4,580, this would mean that the per capita cost — including every man, woman and child, —for library purposes in the fiscal year 1968-69, is more than $20., highest in the entire state, and $12 more than the nearest city, Pasadena, at $7 plus.

Librarians will, of course, say that the Harrison Memorial Library here serves many more thousands than the Carmel city population, but it is this city population, through its government which bears the fiscal burden.

But let us go on with what else makes up the property tax rate of $7.995. There's the Carmel city tax which is $1.26, three cents higher than it was last year; and there's the county tax, $2.03, higher by 13 cents than the year before.

The Monterey airport district tax is 11 cents (the same as last year), and the Carmel Sanitary District levy is 29 cents (two cents higher than the preceding year).

Finally there is a one-cent tax for flood control, and the last tax to be charged for the now defunct Monterey Peninsula Water District, of eight-and-a-half cents (down from 15 cents in the 1967-68 year).

Now let us get back briefly to that new but rapidly growing equalization school aid offset tax being levied in Monterey County.

This tax is provided to adjust what are considered school support inequities within each county, and is collected and disbursed within each county. It is in addition to state-given 'equalization aid' regularly supplied, over a period of many years, to so-called impoverished school districts.

This tax will — in fiscal 1968-69 — take over $100,000 out of the pockets of property taxpayers residing within the boundaries of the Carmel Unified School District.

Carmel Educators Attend Workshop

Twelve school administrators and seven industrial representatives from the Monterey Peninsula will attend the Nov. 6 Education Appraisal Workshop at the Hyatt House, Salinas.

The workshop is designed to bring together leading employers and educators in Monterey County to discuss problems of vocational education and to devise programs of action based on these discussions.

A central theme of the workshop is the involvement of industry and business in assisting the schools in the realistic vocational education of the county's future citizens and employees.

Attending the day-long workshop from the Carmel Unified School District will be Dr Harris Taylor and Dan Yurkovich.

Chatham Honored

R. Stanley Chatham, restaurant manager at the Holiday Inn of Carmel, California, has been named in the top 8% of all restaurants managers in the chain of 1,026 inns in 48 states, Canada, the Caribbean, and Europe. The announcement was made at the Conference of the International Association of Holiday Inns held in Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21-23.

The awards for excellence in restaurant operation were based on food sales and service as well as the ratings from the company inspectors who make quarterly reports on all the inns.

The Holiday Inn system is the world's largest motor hotel chain with over 133,000 rooms.

An Ad in the Pine Cone is a Better Value

Zen Seminar At Sunset Auditorium

A seminar concerned with the practice of Zen meditation will be held at the Sunset Auditorium Nov. 2 and 3.

Five Zen priests will explain the hows and whys of Zen meditation, and the seminar will provide those interested with a unique opportunity to find out what the practice of true Zen entails.

The seminar will include lectures on Zen Buddhist history, and students from Tassajara will demonstrate the correct Zazen postures.

Bishop Toyen Sumi, presiding head of Soto Zen in North America; the Revverend Shunryn Suzuki Roshi at Tassajara; Kobo Chino, instructor at Tassajara; Rev. Dainin, Katagiri, priest instructor at Sojipi in San Francisco, and Rev. Kisen Ueno of Zenshinji in Monterey will be the Zen priests who will conduct the seminar.

Reservations for the two meetings must be made in advance, and a contribution will be expected. The session begins at 1 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday. Call 375-4777, 624-4190 or 624-6808 for reservations.

A BIG DEAL for the FAT CATS

but it's BAD NEWS for homeowners and DISASTER for renters!

VOTE NO ON PROPOSITION 9

IF PROPOSITION NO. 9 WERE ADOPTED:

● Enormous property tax savings to large landowners and speculators would have to be made up by drastically increased income and sales tax on homeowners and renters.

● California's school system would be thrown into chaos.

● Bonds for construction projects totalling more than $5 billion dollars — authorized by the voters but unissued — could not be sold. This represents a loss of more than half a million jobs for California workers.

HOW
are the great majority of Californians
HURT
by The Tax Trap Initiative?

A practical method of replacing property tax revenues lost under Proposition 9 would be a combination of these State tax increases, as calculated by State fiscal experts:

(1) Doubling existing State Income Tax
(2) Doubling existing State Sales Tax
(3) Imposition of 5% Sales Tax on Food

This shifting of tax burdens would have the following effect on a family of four:

Your Annual Income Is	HOMEOWNER: You Own A Home With A Market Value Of	HOMEOWNER: Your Net Increase In TOTAL TAXES Would Be	RENTER: Your Net Increase In TOTAL TAXES Would Be
$ 7,500.	$17,700.	$ 27.	$ 188.

Gwenn Graham Dies Unexpectedly

Gwenn Graham, for many years the publicity director for Del Monte Properties Co., died in her sleep of a cerebral hemorrhage this week at her home in Carmel Valley.

She and her husband, the late Julian P. Graham, a world-famous official Del Monte protographer, formed a press team until his death five years ago.

Mrs. Graham was born in 1911 in Seattle where she spent her girlhood.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Elverda J. Campbell and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell Hamilton, both of Monterey, and four stepchildren.

Donations to the SPCA for the new animal shelter are suggested by the family as memorials.

French Trouble World Affairs Subject Nov. 1

"The Causes and Consequences of Turbulence in France," will be the subject of an address by S. Marshall Kempner to the World Affairs Council in cooperation with the Carmel Adult School on Friday, Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. in Brey Hall, Carmel high school.

The public is invited at no cost.

This will be the second council meeting in the series "Confrontations of 1968."

Kempner is a San Francisco investment executive. He is chairman of the Business Friends of France, a member of the Board of Trustees of the World Affairs Council of Northern California, and has been associatd with numerous private and government organizations. He has had a long record of relationships with France and French businessmen and witnessed last June the elections which brought turmoil in France to a close.

Mr. Kempner will explain the origin of the student revolt last May followed by the widespread strike of French workers and its effect on the economy of France.

He will show how General DeGaulle handled this situation: his proposal for restructuring the social order with particular emphasis on "participation"; the choice he offered between Gaullism and Communism; the dismissal of Pompidou and the consequences of the tumult.

He will conclude by suggesting where France might go from here.

LW Voters Tustle With Taxes

Some interesting facts about state and federal taxes were brought out at last luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula.

The League has long fought for State Constitutional revision as exemplified in Proposition 1. It favors Proposition 1A which grants tax rebates to property owners.

It is against Proposition 9 which is to phase out property tax support of schools and welfare within five years.

They fear that alternative taxes such as sales taxes and income tax will have to be increased 150% to 300%, thus benefiting the corporations which own 70% of the property, more than the property owners. They also fear loss of local control.

A number of tax loopholes were questioned, such as depletion allowances of 27 percent in the extractive industries; allowing insurance companies to deduct the cost of their buildings; chain stores.

Political Advertisement

VOTE "YES" ON PROPOSITION 9

Vote "Yes" Proposition 9

All tax experts agree the property tax is an inequitable means of distributing tax burdens and it must be changed.

Property taxes have doubled in the last ten years. It is predicted they will double or triple in the next ten years. They are completely out of control.

Property taxes now represent 30% to 50% of rental income on family housing and will continue to go up.

Only by legally limiting the use of the property tax can we protect our homes from a taxation from which we have no recourse and requires you to pay—or get out!

Proposition 9 has been put on the ballot by the people to give homeowners an opportunity to stop escalation.

It will reduce property taxes 50% by taking the costs of education and welfare off of homes at the rate of 20% per year over a period of five years.

It will, after five years, limit the use of the property tax and put a maximum tax on homes of 1% of the cash value. (On a $20,000 homefi this would be $200).

It will limit the local bonded indebtedness to 20% of the assessed value, but limits only bonds that are secured by property. It does not apply to revenue and state bonds.

It puts responsibility for controlling the rapid increase of costs for education and welfare directly on the Legislature and charges them with adequatly funding these costs and equitably distributing the burden.

Monterey County property taxes will be $5 million more this year—an increase of 10%. Family housing will pay 60% to 70% of this property tax bill.

The property tax is a local problem—your problem.
To do something about it! Vote "Yes" on 9

Vote "No" Proposition 1-a

Even the legislators who rushed this bill through at the last minute can not be too proud of it. It is admittedly an emergency measure to defeat Proposition 9.

IT WAS A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY. The state had accumulated over $300 million surplus for property tax relief and school support. It had not been allocated.

Proposition 1-a specifically states it is in conflict with Proposition 9—if they both pass, the one with the largest plurality will cancel out the other. If they both fail, the $300 million is still there.

For the first year, Proposition 1-a offers $70 payments to taxpayers in the manner specified in Senate Bill No. 8. After that, it provides for a reduction in assessed value of dwelling occupied by the owner of $750. It offers renters a double standard income tax deduction and to those in the lower income brackets this may mean little or perhaps nothing.

It takes household furnishings off the property tax, but provides for an increase in rate to offset the loss. Businessmen will receive a 15% reduction in business inventory.

It specifically states it is property tax relief, pure and simple. IT DOES NOT SAY IT WILL BE A REDUCTION IN THE PROPERTY TAX BILL, BECAUSE THE RELIEF WILL PROBABLY BE LESS THAN THIS YEAR'S INCREASE.

PROPOSITION 1-a SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED FOR WHAT IT REALLY IS—A LAST MINUTE EFFORT TO DEFEAT PROPOSITION 9 AND AVOID FACING UP TO THE TASK OF BASIC TAX REFORM.
